Genre: Horror

Timothy has been having nightmares lately about his brother that his in a coma, from being in an accident in the military. But it's not only in Timothy's dreams. Timothy's friend Stuart has been acting really strange and rude he thinks it could relate to stuff he's seeing. About a few weeks later a new girl came to the school named Abigail that practically turns this problem upside down...

By the time she's been there things are getting worse. When Timothy and Abigail got put in a school project together Timothy finds out Abigail's secret. Stuart had a swim meet when something horrible happened. Ever sense that day Stuart has been in the hospital but what happened? Abigail is seeing things he things she sees call themselves the Nightmarrys. One night Timothy was walking home alone he came across I person standing on the hills the person ran and disappeared into the distance. Timothy was seeing him everywhere it then started raining then he appeared right in front of timothy was his brother when blood was dripping. Now timothy and Abigail cannot take this anymore now there trying to find out what and why it's happening to them.

Recommendation: My recommendation for this book would be for people who like horror or mystery books.
